AMUSEMENTS

"The Red Mill."

Martin & Emery Co.'s production of "The Red Mill" this season is presented on a scale of lavishness that dwarfs the organization of last season. The scenery has been built upon the largest scale, the costumes all replaced by new and costly designs, while the company of principles have been most carefully selected and embraces many names familiar to theatregoers. The chorus of forty is said to be one of the best ever organized. It is safe to assume that the production will prove one of the most brilliant theatrical events of the season. At Holland's Opera House Wednesday night, Oct. 18.

On Manslaughter Charge.

Hodgenville, Ky., Oct. 13.—Out fifteen hours, the jury in the Larue circuit court this afternoon found Philip Thompson guilty of voluntary manslaughter in connection with the charge of murdering John Clark at Otter Creek last May 7. He was sent from two to ten years.

RESULTS THAT REMAIN

Are Appreciated by Hopkinsville People.

Thousands who suffer from backache and kidney complaint have tried one remedy after another, finding only temporary benefit. This is discouraging, but there is one special kidney medicine that cures permanently and there is plenty of proof right here in Hopkinsville.

Here is the testimony of one who used Doan's Kidney Pills years ago, and now states that the cure was lasting.

Miss L. A. Hester, 417 Cleveland St., Hopkinsville, Ky., says: "I believe there is little need of anyone suffering from backache when Doan's Kidney Pills can be had. The prompt and thorough relief which followed their use in my case has given me great faith in their merits.
In the summer of 1903, I suffered greatly from soreness and lameness across the small of my back and other difficulties arising from weak kidneys. The contents of two boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills, procured from L. A. Johnson & Co.'s Pharmacy, were all that was required to free me from the distressing pain in my back and restore my kidneys to a normal condition. I publicly recommended Doan's Kidney Pills at that time and although four years have since elapsed, I still hold a high opinion of them."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

O'LEARY COW MUCH ABUSED

Neither Mrs. O'Leary Nor Her Bovine to Blame For Chicago Fire.

Chicago, Oct. 13.—Chicago this week celebrated the fortieth anniversary of the great fire of 1871, which destroyed $200,000,000 worth of property and caused the death of 300 people.

In Grant Park the beginning of the fire is to be staged in realistic manner.

A replica of Mrs. O'Leary's historical barn is to be fired as a feature of the evening's parade. A cow has been secured to play the part of the famous animal which, according to the generally accepted belief, started the big blaze by kicking over a lamp.

In this connection Michael Ahern, the only living police reporter who "covered" the story, gives a version of the affair which differs materially from that generally taken as correct.

"The fire was not started by a cow kicking over a lamp while Mrs.
O'Leary was milking the animal,"
said Ahern.

"The O'Learys were all in bed when the fire started. Mrs. O'Leary had milked her cows—she owned five—more than three hours before the fire was discovered. I knew Mrs. O'Leary well. She was a truthful woman. A few days after the fire I interviewed her regarding the story of the cow and the lamp. She branded it as a falsehood.

"It is true that the fire started in the O'Leary cowshed, and I have my reason for believing that some one went there to pilfer milk from one of the cows.

"There was a social gathering in the neighborhood that night in honor of the arrival of a young man from Ireland. One of those present told me in after years that two women of the party went to the O'Leary shed to get some milk for punch.
One woman held a lighted lamp while the other milked the cow. They thought they heard some one coming, and in their haste to escape the lamp was dropped, setting fire to the place.
That, I believe, is the true cause of the fire."

Who Was There That You Knew?

In the shadowy ranks of those who marched to defeat or death or victory fifty years ago in the mighty conflict that convulsed this great nation, is there father or grandfather or uncle of yours? Would you like to see a photograph of him in that long ago day of his youth—a photograph that he never knew was taken? Perhaps we can show you one; and in any case, we can tell you story, stranger than any detective fiction, of 3,500 priceless photographs that were lost and are found again.

3,500 Long Buried Photographs 12 of These FREE.
of the Civil War

THEY were taken by the greatest photographer in the United States of that day; they were bought by the United States Government for $30,000; they were buried in the War Department for 50 years—they are buried there still. But a duplicate set was kept by the photographer—who died poor and broken down; that duplicate set was knocked from pillar to post for nearly 50 years, until it was discovered by a New England collector, J. Pierpont Morgan, who tried to secure the collection—Ex-President Garfield and General Benjamin F. Butler said it was worth $150,000—yet with the help of the Review or Reviews, the entire collection has been gathered into 10 great volumes and is placed within your reach at less than the value of one of the photographs.
It is the one accurate, impartial history of the Civil War—for the camera cannot lie. It tells the story of the War you never heard before. Taken under protection of the Secret Service, these photographs bring to light thousands of little-known phases of the war; they penetrate to strange places and record strange things.

Pictures For Patients.

Superintendent Sights of the Western Asylum will soon resume the moving picture shows abandoned during the heated term, and will arrange to use the same high class films as shown at the Princess.

Dr. Sights was one of the first officials to see the benefits of this class of entertainment for his patients.

Education and Caste Prejudice.

It was thought that the education of Ceylonese on Western lines had freed them from caste, class and racial prejudices. That was a mere fancy. In the case of the Occidental educational does not obliterate such antipathies of his. What reason was there, then, for believing that a similar education would cure the Oriental?—Ceylon Mail.

THE REAL THING.

The childish mind deals with the concrete more easily than with the abstract. It can give an example more readily than a definition. As, for instance:

The kindergartner was trying to "draw out" from her little audience the meaning of good luck. She asked, "Have you ever had good luck?"

Because Michael waved his arms and signaled most strenuously, he was given the floor. "I know what good luck means. My papa has always had good luck. He's been on the section gang 23 years, and he's never broke a hand car yet."

Reforming Mildred

Mildred was astonishingly proficient in the gentle art of self-depreciation. She had a horror of permitting people to think herself or her possessions better than they really were. She could not bear that any one should believe she was trying to appear smarter or nicer than she was in reality.

For instance, if a person casually admired her bracelet, which was set with tiny French brilliants that defied the criticism of anyone but an expert with a magnifying glass, Mildred always spoke up hurriedly.

"They aren't real diamonds, you know," she would explain. "They look real, don't they? But they aren't."

When visitors chanced to remark on the beauty of the Flemish woodwork in her home she would hasten to say: "But you know it isn't real oak—it's just pine stained. The effect is exactly as good and you couldn't tell the difference unless it was explained to you—but it isn't real oak at all!"

One day she said to visitors: "No, father isn't rich enough to own an automobile." Yet these same visitors had been assured ten minutes before by her father that he disliked cheap cars and was waiting until American manufacturers did better work before he bought a machine.

Sometimes Mildred's despairing family would take her aside after such outbursts and remonstrate with her. Their words ranged from tearful supplication to roaring threats, but the effect in all cases was precisely nothing. Mildred would turn her rather prominent, accusing eyes upon her mentor and say: "Well, but it's true, isn't it? What's wrong about telling the truth?"

As time went on her family despair of ever finding a cure for this obliquity of Mildred's mind. They would sacrifice much in order to jolt her into a becomingly tactful state of conscience. They finally concluded it was hopeless.

It irritated Mildred's mother to sail out in a brand-new gown made from an old one sent her by a rich aunt and then to hear her daughter chirp: "You'd never guess mother hadn't gone downtown and bought that goods by the yard, would you? Aunt Sarah is so much larger than mother that things cut down nicely for her!"

In response to her mother's somewhat heated remarks after this particular performance Mildred retorted: "Why, you actually weren't trying to make them think it was new when it wasn't, were you? That would be deceiving them!"

Of course, this reply would floor any perfectly good mother. Still, as Mildred's mother said, it was infuriating to have a daughter so devoid of common sense.

Mildred was just as downright in regard to abstract things, too. She carefully explained that her brother's eyes didn't really fall him at college, but that he was expelled because he got into so many scrapes. She also pointed out that, even though he did have a prominent jaw, his character lacked decision and that he threw his things on the floor instead of hanging them up.

So when she became engaged to Rufus Price her family, in spite of their disappointment, were relieved. They felt that henceforth Mildred would be kept busy pointing out all of Rufus' defects and faults and sins to him, so that they would get a much needed rest.

If there was anything Rufus had in abundance it was faults. If he had stood ten miles away and let you fire a shot at him it would have been impossible to escape hitting a fault or so. The more Mildred's family thought about it the more Rufus appeared to them like a great blessing.

They were talking it over one evening when Mildred was supposed to be upstairs.

"He is so homely," said Mildred's mother, "and so awkward and so slow."

"And he'll never make a dollar," interrupted Mildred's father.

"And his temper!" suggested Mildred's brother. "Gee! Cross grain-ed!"

Then they all stared at Mildred, who, apparently, had risen out of the floor.

She breathed hard. "I should think you'd all be ashamed of yourselves!" she stormed. "To malign a perfectly wonderful man like Rufus! Homely! Where are your eyes? He has a marvelously strong face! And just because he doesn't hop around like a dancing master is no sign that he is awkward! He has the sweetest disposition on earth! As to making money, if he isn't ten times smarter than any of the men in his family I'd like to know it! He is perfectly splendid, and you can just all apologize!"

"We apologize, all right," gasped her brother, who was the first of the family to recover. "If falling in love with Rufus has reformed you we shall never cease to sing his praises!"

To the Bitter End.

Mrs. Brown-Jones—Mrs. Smith is opposing your nomination bitterly. Can't you conciliate her in any way?

Mrs. Smith—It is impossible. Twenty-four years ago I said that her baby was small for its age.—Harper's Magazine.

Effort of One Bottle.

Crandall, Tex.—After my last spell of sickness," writes Mrs. Belle Teal, of this city, "I remained very ill, and stayed in bed for eight weeks. I couldn't get up, all this time, and though my doctor came to see me every day, he didn't do me any good. I had taken but one bottle of Cardui, when I was up going every where and soon I was doing all my housework." Cardui helps when other medicines have failed, because it contains ingredients not found in any other medicine. Pure, safe, reliable, gentle, acting Cardui is the ideal medicinal tonic for weak, sick women. Try it.

Spuds Drop To 80 Cents.

Potatoes are getting more plentiful and the price is rapidly declining. Thursday they were wholesaling as low as 80c a bushel while two months ago they were as high as $2 a bushel.

The extreme decrease is a surprise to the wholesale dealers. It was expected that they would decline some, but none thought they would get so low as they are at present.

It is likely that the price will begin to increase within a few weeks. —Henderson Journal.

$3.50 Recipe Free For Weak Men.

Send Name and Address Today
---You Can Have it Free and Be Strong and Vigorous.

I have in my possession a prescription for nervous debility, lack of vigor, weakened manhood, failing memory and lame back, brought on by excesses, unnatural drains, or the follies of youth, that has cured so many worn and nervous men right in their own homes—without any additional help or medicine—that I think every man who wishes to regain his manly power and virility, quickly and quietly, should have a copy. So I have determined to send a copy of the prescription free of charge, in a plain, ordinary sealed envelope, to any man who will write me for it.

This prescription comes from a physician who has made a special study of men and I am convinced it is the surest acting combination for the cure of deficient manhood and vigor failure ever put together.

I think I owe it to my fellow men to send them a copy in confidence so that any man anywhere who is weak and discouraged with repeated failures may stop dragging himself with harmful patent medicines, secure what I believe is the quickest-acting restorative, up-building, SPOT-TOUCHING remedy ever devised, and so cure himself at home quietly and quickly. Just drop me a line like this: Dr. A. E. Robinson, 3715 Lusk Building, Detroit, Mich., and I will send you a copy of this splendid recipe in a plain, ordinary envelope free of charge. A great many doctors would charge $3.00 to $5.00 for merely writing out a prescription like this—but I send it entirely free.

Bride Groom's Motive.

San Antonio, Tex., Oct. 10.—The mystery surrounding the suicide of John R. Lynch, Lieutenant of the Third Cavalry, six hours after his marriage, remains unsolved. The only explanation offered by those who knew Lynch is that he had determined on the act previously and married Miss Carruthers so that under the law she would be entitled to the pension which goes to the widow of an officer. Lynch was involved financially and faced possible dismissal for drunkenness.

"I suffered habitually from constipation. Doan's Regulets relieved and strengthened the bowels, so that they have been regular ever since." —A. E. Davis, grocer, Sulphur Springs, Tex.

HOW THEY DO IT

Eye Witness Tells How Fish Ascend Waterfalls.

A man who lives in Oregon City, on the Willamette river not far over a cliff from Portland, where the river falls over a cliff of several heights, says he has often watched the salmon trying to ascend these falls. The lowest place in the waterfall is some 14 feet perpendicularly, but the volume of water is great. This was a favorite place for the Indians to catch salmon in baskets before the coming of the white man. The fish would come to the falls and then go back a sufficient distance to give them good headway. They would take a run at the falls at top speed, and then swim straight up the middle of the falls, many of them being thrown back by the force of the water, but many of them also succeeded in getting into the water above. They did not jump the falls nor did they catch by their tails on projecting rocks, but by rapid swimming they ascended.

The were 55,185 names dropped from the roll and 26,200 added leaving a net loss of 28,985 pensioners. The total number at the end of the year was 892,098, the smallest since 1892.

Oh, You Diving Girls!

Baptists Rejoice.

Baptists rejoice just now over an actual union which they say really unites. They refer to the coming together of Baptists North and Baptists Free, the last named a body of 80,000 members, transferring nearly $2,000,000 of invested funds and contributing hereafter to the combined missionary work of all. The separation of Free Baptists has existed since 1780 and grew out of doctrinal differences that have now disappeared. Northern and Free Baptists are not, like even the Federal Council, increasing the number of organizations. Instead, they are decreasing them. Neither body asks the other to conform precisely to its standards. The names, Baptist, Free Baptist and United Baptist, are regarded as equivalent. State organizations are free to unite or remain apart. Local churches can do the same. It is believed that in many villages, two Baptist churches, rivals in the past, and sometimes bitter ones, may now come together, but that is left to them to determine. The newspaper organ of Free Baptists is to be merged with a Boston Baptist paper. This union affects three great societies

Oh, You Diving Girls!

OH "YOU DIVING GIRLS."

There is one attraction at the Carnival this week that is claimed will be the talk of Hopkinsville inside of 48 hours and that is the Diving Girls Show, last week it joined Krause's Carnival Co. jumping over 700 miles from Flint Michigan where it was the star feature attraction at the Michigan Fair. There is five of the greatest Swimmers and Divers in the world with this company including Thelma the Famous Danish Diver and Swimmer, and Challenger of Amette Kellerman the exhibition given by these people is simply wonderful and takes place in a large Pool holding 35,000 gallons of water. It is a real novelty and something never seen here before. The way the Hopkinsville Band boys and others who was in Clarksville last week speak of this show. It will be the Biggest Hit ever seen in this city. The show is clean refined and one that every man woman and child in the city should see. It may be well to state that all through the show there is lots of comedy furnished by Buster the only Female Water Clown, and also by Miss May Beckwith of the famous Beckwith Family of English Swimmers.

BOYS FIND QUEER DUTIES

London Messengers Called Upon to Perform All Sorts of Peculiar Tasks.

Awards of special medals for remarkable tasks successfully performed by district messenger boys were made in London a few days ago and revealed the fact that messenger boys do not always have such an easy, flowing time as some may have imagined. The New York World says prizes were presented to about 200 boys, many of whom had fulfilled very difficult missions.

Messenger Alfred Beale, for instance, won a prize because he was sent from London to Paris to deliver a large box, then to Rome with a dress suit for a high official of the Italian court, and then to Belgium, where he had to meet the grand duke of Mecklenburg at Liege station with a luncheon basket.

Another boy, Messenger Robbins, brought an elephant and its Indian keeper from Buxton to the Palladium and back, and rode on the animal's back on the return journey. A third boy was sent for in hot haste to a house in Bond street, where he found a terrified lady standing on a table. She refused to descend until the lad had captured the mouse which had frightened her.

HAVE LEARNED HOW TO SPELL

Reason Why One Man Thinks That the Intelligence of Juries Has Increased.

Having made the statement that juries are more intelligent than they used to be, the man who has often served as a juror backed it up with bits of his own experience.

"My chief reason for saying so is that juries nowadays do not have such a tussle with the word guilty as formerly," he said. "Several years ago I talked confidentially with a number of men who assured me that as soon as they learned they had been impaneled they looked up the spelling of 'guilty' and practiced writing it so that in case the jury lightning actually struck them and the accused should be convicted they would know how to write their opinion. Others of my associates were not so conscientious. If they believed a man guilty they said so, irrespective of dictionary rulings. Less than five years ago I served on a jury that pronounced a man guilty in four different orthographic forms besides the right one: Gilte, gillite, gille and gilly. So far as my observation goes most juries nowadays know how to spell guilty without especial coaching."

DOOM OF THE FAMILY?

Some delver in the mathematics of divorces has figured it out that, at the present rate of increase, 1990 will see one-half of all marriages in this country dissolved by legal proceedings.

A Missouri University professor makes this prophecy: "The family as a permanent union between man and wife will end in this country within a measurable length of time. Monogamy as an institution is doomed in the United States."

Conditions certainly are not promising. In 1905 our country had 68,000 divorces, against 40,000 in the rest of the world.

All the time, the world is growing better. Improvement is sure to come in principles, means and methods of perpetuating the institution of the home. We who give consideration to present unpromising conditions will not be here in 1990. But those who shall be on the scene of the world's action and progress will see such improvements in conditions of marriage as to reduce divorce to practical extinction.

Robinson Crusoe—This is Friday, is it? Well, bring me some fish.

IMPORTANCE RECOGNIZED.

"Do you think that man fully appreciates the importance of the office to which we have elected him?" said one constituent.

"I guess he does," replied the other. "The first thing he did was to say it ought to command a larger salary."

Mrs. John Drew Better.

McLeansboro, Ill.—"About five years ago," says Mrs. John L. Drew, of this place, "I was afflicted with pairs and irregularity every month. I suffered continually, was weak and despondent, and unable to do my housework. I took Cardui, and in one month, I felt like a new woman and worked hard all summer. I am now in perfect health, and recommend Cardui to all suffering women." Every day, during the past 50 years, Cardui has been steadily forging ahead as a result of its proven value in female troubles. It relieves headache, backache, womanly misery and puts fresh strength into weary bodies. Try it.

DIVER'S NERVES PROVE TRUE

Seeker After Pearls Saved From a Horrible Death by His Coolness and Courage.

A successful diver must possess great courage and nerves of steel. Such a man connected with a large wrecking company was visiting some years ago the pearl fisheries in the Gulf of California, where sharks abounded. On one of his trips in quest of the pearl oyster he had a narrow escape from a fearful death.

He had been instructed never to stir from the bottom until he had looked up and around. Fortunately he heeded the advice. Having filled his bag, he glanced quickly about and caught sight of a huge shovel-nosed shark watching him.

In an emergency men think fast. Near the diver was a large rock. He moved quickly to the other side of it, hoping to dodge the ferocious monster, but the maneuver did not work. The shark watched every movement, changing his position by a slight motion of his powerful tail.

Time was precious, and the diver conceived the idea of blinding the shark by stirring up the mud. Under cover of that he might escape, he worked for dear life and had the water thick with mud in less than half a minute.

Slipping around the rock again, he rose to the surface, having barely strength enough to reach the side of the boat, and was hauled on board just as the voracious man-eater made a rush for him.

IN THE SUBURBAN TOWN.

First Commuter—Do you treat your cook like one of the family?
Second Commuter—Nix. We wouldn't dare to take such a liberty.

THE FLAT KITCHEN.

The architects of modern flats are indirectly instrumental in work for good housekeeping. The new kitchens are so dainty, so compact, so ingenious that they inspire any woman to keep them in perfect condition. The "parlor" may be an ordinary room. At best it will not have any more artistic features than paneled walls, a foyer hall or prismatic electric light fixtures. The kitchen is the place on which the architect lavishes his ingenuity. Maybe it is electrically fitted with the most marvelous appliances for cooking, ironing and serving. If not, the porcelain tubs, folding clothes racks, shining nickel or copper taps, glass shelves, porcelain-lined ice boxes and a trim gas range are sufficiently attractive to lure any woman to spend a fair portion of her time "in their midst," using them or keeping them in order. A man may cheerfully afford to pay a little higher rent for one of these delightful kitchens. He is more than likely to make it up in an improved menu. At any rate, it is worth an experiment. Besides, you have to. All the flats are built that way now.

CRUELTY TO ENGLISH WORDS.

Fearful and wonderful are the uses to which some of our English words are put, uses for which they were never meant. The most conspicuous at the moment is the word skating. In a Parisian's mouth a skating is a rink, and he talks of one skating, two skatings and even a third with unblushing ineptness. Then there is the word smoking. This in Paris has nothing to do with either tobacco or opium. It merely means a man's dinner jacket. There is a pastry cook who makes buns on what he believes to be an English model, and he will sell you one bun, pronounced nasally, like burrs, for four sous.

BREAKAGES.

"My husband broke the family record for swearing yesterday."

"Why so?"

"Because the cook broke the family china."

JUST A LITTLE TOO FRESH

Boy Jumped at Conclusions and His Employer Thereby Lost a Customer.

Miss Louise Gunther, who returned recently from Chicago, where she was appearing in vaudeville, turned a bottle of red ink over while writing at her home, at One Hundred and Twenty-first street and Amsterdam avenue and the first two fingers on her left hand were discolored. Miss Gunther applied soap and water immediately, and although she scrubbed industriously was unable to remove the ink entirely. She did fado it, though, until her fingers were brown instead of red.

The same afternoon she went to a delicatessen store near her home to get some material for her evening meal. A boy about sixteen years old waited on her. When he had wrapped up her bundles he leaned over the counter and, assuming a confidential air, said:

"I'll tell you how you can get that off your fingers if you want me to."

"I wish you would," said the actress.

"Rub the fingers with gasoline."

"Will that remove it?"

"It took it off of my fingers," said the boy. "Try it and I'll bet you nobody won't know you ever smoked."

"I ever what?" she almost screamed.

"Why, smoked," said the boy.

Miss Gunther hadn't paid for her purchases. "Here," she said, "you just take these back. I'll trade somewhere else. I never smoked in my life."—New York Telegraph.

WHAT PUZZLED THE WORKMAN.

Sergeant Atkins had served for many years in foreign climes, and now he was traveling back to the village where he was born. In the carriage of the local train that carried him over the last stage of his journey he related some of the strange adventures which had befallen him. And the workmen present listened in open-mouthed wonder.

"In that battle," said the soldier, "we fought from eight in the morning till eight at night, and never stopped a moment."

"Sounds all right," said the only doubting one. "But—there's just one thing I don't understand."

"Indeed!" said the sunburnt warrior. "And what is it you don't understand?"

"Well, what I want to know is this," answered the horny-handed one, in a tone of subdued triumph. "How did you manage about the dinner hour—eh?"

SOMETHING TO SHOW.

"Do you mean to tell me," demanded Mr. Sillicus angrily, "that you actually ordered $10 worth of groceries of a total stranger, at prices less than any wholesale dealer can buy them, and paid for them in advance?"

"Yes, that's what I said," replied his better half.

"And you hadn't sense enough to see that it was a bare-faced swindle!" roared Sillicus. "Well, your money is gone now, and you have nothing to show for it."

"Why, yes I have, John," said his wife. "I have this man's receipt for the money."—Lippincott's.

HABITS OF THE SEMINOLES

Indians of Florida Live in Open Houses—Calico Shirt and Derby Hat Their Costume.

The Seminole Indians of Florida sit, eat and sleep on platforms raised about three feet from the ground under the roofs of their open houses. In each village the houses are so arranged as to leave an open space in the middle of the camp, and in the center of this is a cooking house. Here food is constantly kept on the fire, for there are no hard and fast meal hours. They go about dressed in native costume. The men wear, on ordinary occasions, merely a shirt of gayly colored calico. To this they add, whenever they can obtain one, a derby hat and new bandana handkerchiefs around neck. This is their ordinary dress. On gala occasions they wear a turban, made of a shawl held together by a band of hammered silver, and sport an aigrette or an ostrich feather, beautiful woven head belts with symbolic designs, leggings and moccasins of buckskin and a gorgeous calico coat. The use of buckskin upper garments has long since been discontinued on account of the heat; the leggings and moccasins have survived, but are no longer worn about the camps, for they would soon become wet and useless. The women are more fully clad than the men. Their costume consists of a shirt and a sleeved cape of calico. About their necks they wear enormous masses of beads, from the strings of which they often hang silver coins. Many of the women wear brooches or bangles benten from silver coins by the native smiths. Like most Indians, the Seminoles do not care for gold in any form.

ECENTRIC POET.

Queer stories are told of the most unusual methods of work and caprices of Gerard de Nerval, the French poet. He followed inspiration literally, scribbled a line upon an omnibus, a couplet upon the parapet of Pont Neuf, in taverns, boudoirs and greenrooms. His longest sustained effort would be ten lines. His manuscript consisted of such strips held together by wafers. Once he entered the garden of the Palais Royal leading a lobster on a blue ribbon. His friends remonstrated. "Why," said De Nerval, "why is a lobster worse than a dog or a cat or a gazelle or a lion or any other beast that people have follow them about? I admire lobsters; they have poise, they are serious, they know the secrets of the sea, they don't bark."

FEMALE INDEPENDENCE.

The day of the woman is certainly at hand and she does about as she pleases and can go wherever she wants to on the face of the earth. This was illustrated recently by Miss Elizabeth Kendall, professor of history at Wellesley college, who completed a year of travel without any companion of her own sex. Beginning on the Dalmatian coast, she went to Turkey and India, by sea to Canton and across China to Tibet. She is now in Peking and will cross Mongolia by the caravan route through the Gobi desert to the Trans-Siberian railway near Lake Baikal and return to America by way of Europe.

GEN. MORGAN MONUMENT

To Be Unveiled In Lexington
This Week With Imposing Ceremonies.

COST $15,000 TO PRODUCE.

Mrs. L McF. Blakemore, of This City, Will Be One Of The Speakers.

The unveiling of the monument erected to the memory of the General John Hunt Morgan and His Men, which will be held in Lexington, Kentucky, on October the 18th, will be an event of wide-spread interest. This monument which is given by the United Daughters of the Confederacy, cost $15,000.00 to produce and stands, not only as a memorial to the great Confederate General, but as a beautiful remembrance of the splendid efforts of those brave and splendid women who have labored faithfully in the work of raising the funds with which to erect the monument.

The unveiling ceremony will be a fitting climax to the great convention of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, which will be held in Lexington this week. The convention is a very elaborate affair and will include General J. W. Duke and Major O. S. L. Masters of the Confederate Army, an address by the Rev. Dr. William T. French, an address by Governor Augustus H. Work, an address by the Hon. J. P. Morgan, the U. D. C., Mrs. L. McF. Blakemore, a prayer by the Rev. Dr. E. O. Gierhart, the benediction by the Rev. Dr. John R. Morgan, before the unveiling of the monument, the address of the day will be delivered by Dr. Guy C. Loe of Lexington, Maryland.

Immediately before the unveiling ceremony, which will take place on the famous court house square where the monument has been erected, a session of the convention will be held in the Woodland Park Auditorium, and where a parade of magnificent proportions will be formed, including the members of Morgan's Men, Confederate Veterans, State Officials of the United Confederate Veterans, the Monument Committee, Convention Delegates, the Governor and his Staff.

This monument is an Equestrian Statue, said to be the finest of its character in existence to-day; it is the work of Signor Pompeo Coppini. It is cast in bronze and is placed upon an imposing pedestal of the choicest granite. General Morgan's brother pronounces the statue a remarkable likeness of the great General.

Czar's Daughter.

The engagement of the Grand Duchess Olga of Russia and of Prince Boris of Bulgaria will be announced officially on Nov. 15. The grand duchess is the eldest of the four daughters of the emperor and empress of Russia.

She is also the prettiest. She is devotedly attached to her little brother, the Grand Duke Alexis, who is only seven years old. In fact, she has frequently insisted upon nursing this heir to the czardom of all the Russias and the chief regret of the youthful bride when leaving for Bulgaria will be parting with her only brother. The grand duchess will be 16 her next birthday, which is Nov. 15. This is the reason that date has been selected for the official announcement.

The prince is slightly older than his fiancée, as he will be 17 next January.

THIRTEEN ADDITIONS

Bringing Membership of Vigorous Young Baptist Church
Up to 105.

The revival at the Second Baptist church closed Sunday night, when Evangelist Ratcliffe preached his final sermon. There was a special service Sunday afternoon, which was largely attended. The meeting at night was the best of the series. The house was packed to overflowing and Mr. Ratcliffe's sermon was a powerful appeal. There were 4 additions, bringing the total up to 105.

This vigorous young church was organized in April 1910 with 33 members, with Rev. E. J. Weiler as pastor. At a meeting last January held by Rev. C. C. Daves, of Auburn, there were 12 additions, making 25 in two meetings. The membership is now 105, an increase of 72 in 18 months, more than 200 per cent. The converts of the present meeting will be baptized by Mr. Weiler at the First Baptist church next Friday night.

The meeting has been productive of great good, the church being spiritually revived and uplifted.

Fixed At 74.

Seventy bodies have been recovered at Austin, Pa., leaving only four more missing.

Good Novels Thrown In.

A reader of The Chicago Record-Herald with a mathematical turn of mind has calculated that the serial novels published in that paper in year represent a saving of from $18 to its readers. He figures that for the fiction lover it is more economical to subscribe for The Record-Herald than to go without it.

"No other large city daily," continues, "prints so much of the best new fiction, in addition to the news of the day. Not counting the innumerable short stories in the Sunday Magazine of The Record-Herald, that magazine prints year at least four serial novels by some of the best popular authors—Richard Haggard, Conan Doyle, Louis Tre George Gibbs, Jeffery Farnol and others in that class. Then in body of the paper there is nearly always another good serial, run daily and Sunday, which makes complete new novel every month, two, or, say, eight whole books of high class fiction in a year. At usual price of $1.50 these novels in book form would cost $12.00. I get all this thrown in extra with my mighty good newspaper. I call it a bargain."

That is one way to look at it, it seems to be a sensible way. The real cause of the popularity of the Record-Herald, however, is that it is the best all-around home newspaper in the country.
